

Tuyết Minh

Tuyết Minh (Bùi) Argabright came to the USA with her parents and siblings in 1975. She and her family were evacuation via helicopter from the top of the US Embassy during the fall of Saigon. Today she is married to James Argabright and they have three children and two grand-children.

She started her career as a computer analyst for McDonnell Douglas Aircraft in 1981 and worked in the aerospace industry for nearly 10 years, after which she became a stay-at-home mom for 19 years to raise her family. In 2010 she returned to the workforce as an English to Vietnamese interpreter/translator and continues in that role to this day.

She serves as General Secretary to the Vietnamese American Community of Tarrant County & Vicinity (Texas). She also serves as an interpreter/translator for the Gotama Buddha Vihara in Parker, Texas and has compiled three bilingual Buddhist chanting books.

She deeply appreciates her parents, who fled the Communist twice, once from North to South Vietnam in 1954 and then again in 1975 during the fall of Saigon. She also deeply appreciates those soldiers and civilian heroes who sacrificed their lives during the Vietnam war. Today, she dedicates her time to the support of conservatives causes and to the protection of the US Constitution.

- BS in Information & Computer Science, University of California, Irvine
- Member of TAJIT – Texas Association of Judiciary Interpreters & Translators
- Member of NAJIT – National Association of Judiciary Interpreters & Translators
- Voting Member of ATA – American Translators Association since 2010